

Ramsey Parks & Recreation Celebrates: Loral I Armstrong Delaney Central Park Dedication

Park Dedication Celebration & Dog Parade

The City of Ramsey invites you to celebrate the renaming of Central Park to honor, and recognize, Loral I Armstrong Delaney. This initiative was affirmed and adopted by City Council Resolution #20-21. Following the dedication, we invite all dogs to participate in a Ramsey Community Dog Parade! Please visit: www.cityoframsey.com/ParkEvents for details on how to participate in the dog parade. Registration is not required.

Honoring Loral I Delaney

Born in 1938 to Fred and Nellie Armstrong, Loral I has lived in Ramsey her entire life on the grounds of Armstrong Ranch Kennels. Her father opened the business in 1926 and is the namesake of Armstrong Boulevard, which at the time was a simple dirt road. Loral I has witnessed the Township of Ramsey become the city it is today. And, in Loral I's lifetime, with husband Chuck Delaney at her side, her father's business has been transformed into a world class dog boarding and training facility. The two of them co-founded, and host Game Fair each year, one of largest outdoors events in the nation, and Loral I became one of the world's finest and most highly decorated trapshooters. Amassing numerous national and international trophies throughout six decades of competition, Loral I was inducted into the Trapshooting Hall of Fame in 1989.
